WILSON MAY NOT ACCEPT VERSION

Special Writer Discusses Submarine Issue.

GERMANY ENTERS DENIAL

Berlin Declares Channel Steamer Sussex Was Not Torpedoed by Teutonic Submarine—Question of Sinking Ships Without Warning Seems Far From Adjustment.

Chicago, April 10.—John Callan O'Loughlin, in a dispatch from Washington to the Herald, says in part:

Germany's denial of responsibility for the Sussex attack and justification of submarine attacks on other belligerent merchantmen with Americans on board will not modify President Wilson's decision to act in accordance with facts. As showing the view entertained by the administration of the case of the Sussex foreign diplomats have been notified that the evidence obtained "is more conclusive against Germany than that of the Lusitania."

It is quite true the Berlin government admitted the attack on the Lusitania, but it sought to sustain the conduct of the submarine commander by citing the fact that the liner had ammunition on board.

The Sussex was a liner plying within the limitations of the German pledge of safety. It carried no guns, no ammunition of any kind. It was absolutely defenseless and could not have been regarded as in the service of the belligerents.

Not Expecting an Attack.

It was merely a ferryboat crossing the English channel and as such the persons on board, according to Germany's explicit recognition of the obligations imposed by international law upon her submarines, had the right to expect they would not be molested.

The administration holds that circumstantial evidence is far more conclusive than a mere denial by the German government. This evidence establishes that the track of a torpedo was seen; that fragments of the torpedo disclosed its German origin; that a submarine was sighted and fired a torpedo after a slight lapse of time and within a short distance of the place where the Sussex was struck.

The case against Germany with reference to the Englishman is admittedly weak, because of the efforts of the steamer to escape the pursuing submarine.

The Manchester Engineer was torpedoed without warning and just before the missile pierced its side the periscope of a submarine was sighted. The Eagle Point was torpedoed without warning 142 miles from land in a rough sea.

Germany claims that in the cases of the Manchester Engineer and the Eagle Point she violated none of her promises to the United States, since they required her to respect "liners" only. The vessels referred to were freighters. This government, however, has taken the position that it is most incumbent upon it to protect Americans working as members of a crew than those who go aboard as passengers.

Calls Situation Delicate.

There is no doubt as to the delicacy of the situation which has developed as a result of the proof which has come into the possession of the government of the United States.

But the United States has been forced into a position where it must choose between one side or the other. Great Britain and France declare the Sussex was torpedoed without warning and have submitted proofs in support of their charge. Germany denies that any of her submarines committed this outrage.

If President Wilson does nothing popular feeling will be aroused in the allied countries, which will hold the United States in defiance of the facts collected by the British and French admiralties.

On the other hand, if the president acts, Germany will claim she has been unjust, since her official word has been given as to the innocence of her undersea craft. A government is expected to take the official declaration of another. Failure to do so can mean only one thing, according to Teutonic diplomats, and that is war.

Smith and Pickitt Before Pardon Board

St. Paul, April 10.—The application for pardons for W. J. Smith and R. C. Pickitt were considered by the board of pardons in session in St. Paul today, the statement being made by Governor Burnquist that immediate action would not be taken, and that the applications would be taken under advisement.

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—Walter J. Smith, former state treasurer and R. C. Pickitt, former clerk of the state investment board were before the state pardon board today, seeking pardon from a sentence they had not begun serving. The men had pleaded guilty to second degree larceny and second degree forgery, respectively, and had received indeterminate sentences to the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

Mrs. Smith is responsible for the name of her husband being before the pardon board today. Following his sentence, she appeared before the governor's clerk and asked for clemency. She filed an application for Smith's pardon late Saturday.

Pickitt's friends had previously obtained the administration's pledge that Pickitt would be accorded the same treatment accorded Smith. They filed an application after that of Smith.

Four other cases are known to have been considered. These are the petitions of Orin Kaldewit, Charles Hammon, John Kolb, and William E. Coddington, for their liberty.

Coddington's case is probably the most interesting of them all. He is serving a second degree murder life sentence for killing Henry Kehring, in Itasca county in August, 1903. His plea is based upon self defense, the case growing out of being a "good fellow."

Kehring had been drunk for three weeks, Coddington's attorneys said today. Coddington drove 80 miles in sub zero weather, to get Kehring, and bring him home. Mrs. Kehring paid Coddington $15 for the job. Kehring, sober, demanded $10 of it on the grounds he had made Coddington's profits possible. Coddington refused. Kehring, according to the plea, tried to shoot Coddington, the gun failed, and Coddington beat Kehring to it.

CAVALRY STILL DRIVING SOUTH

Americans Are Bent on Capturing Villa.

AEROPLANES PROVE USEFUL

Excellent Work Done by Flying Corps Has Been So Marked That Headquarters Officials Are Anxiously Awaiting Additions to That Arm of the Service.

San Antonio, Tex., April 10.—General Pershing's report, received at army headquarters here, failed to reveal the position of the advanced columns of the American expeditionary force, but it was made known that cavalry columns, under Colonels Brown and Dodd, are driving south from Satevo with all speed.

Officers here had no information that either force had gone so far as Parral, but they said the receipt of such information would be no surprise.

General Pershing himself is moving south along the trail to Satevo, personally directing, so far as possible, the pursuit of Villa and the search of the mountains and plains adjacent to the trails being followed.

Before leaving his headquarters on the San Geronimo ranch, north of Guerrero, General Pershing said General Luis Riera, the Carranza general whose defection was reported, called upon him and that the two had discussed in a friendly manner the efforts being made by both governments to run down the common enemy.

The excellent work that had been done by the aeroplanes has been so marked that headquarters officials are anxiously awaiting reinforcements of that arm of the service, although it is now recognized that the machines being used are not of the type to give the best service.

General Pershing's reports indicate that the five yet in service are doing good work, both in scouting and carrying dispatches. It has been due to them that General Pershing has been able to keep in communication at all with the fast moving cavalry detachments.

SHAMED BY WOMEN'S DRESS

Head of Mormon Church Asserts That Many Imitate Demimonde.

Salt Lake, April 10.—President John F. Smith of the Mormon church made a vigorous attack on present day dress of women before an audience of several thousand men and women at the Sunday school conference of the church in the tabernacle.

"I want to enter my protest against the prevailing fashions for women," he said. "I see young women going down the streets in garb not only ridiculous but shameful, suggestive and humiliating to the modesty of honorable men."

"To say that I am ashamed of such fashions of dress is speaking my mind very mildly. Many of the fashions worn today had their origin in the houses of infamy of Paris and London and other centers of so called civilization. And women are falling into the habit of imitating the fashions of the demimonde."

ALL IMPORTANT BABY

Is the World's Ruler and Plaything, Oldest and Newest Thing in the World

I am the alpha and omega, the beginning and the ending. I am the oldest thing in the world and the newest. I am the pride of the past, the joy of the present and the hope of the future. The feeding spoon slips from my frail hands but I hold the destinies of the world in my tiny grasp. I am the foundation of the family, the corner stone of the home and the greatest divorce preventive ever discovered. My strength is insignificant, my intellect limited, my mind erratic and changeable, yet I rule the universe. Emperors, kings, potentates, presidents and peasants alike yield me humble homage and abjectly bow before my shrine. I am the least important and the most important thing on earth. I am the world's plaything and its ruler.

I AM THE BABY.

was entirely recovered." Many such

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

London, April 7.—An officer
serving in Mesopotamia wrote home today as follows: "The Garden of Eden is not many hundred yards from my camp.
On the river front grows a tree which has long yellow beans and feathery leaves. It is the only one of its kind here, and "T.
Atkins" has named it "The For-bidden Tree." In its vicinity small Arab boys hawk cheap cigarettes, biscuits and tinned milk and the locality is known as "Temptation Square."

EMERALD GREEN AND
SKY BLUE MUSTACHES

New York, April 10.—Do you remember in "Ten Thousand A Year," how Tittlebat Titmouse's hair turned a brilliant bottle green because he used cheap dye on his clayey locks? Wholesale druggists here today said real hair dye is practically off the market because of the war—so if hair-dyers don't want emerald datches, lavender beards and sky-blue mustaches, let them beware. The druggists look for an epidemic of bona-fide blondes and the coming of light of many unsuspected
"gray ones."

Hard Luck.

Bacon—This paper says according to a French investigator the chance of mistake in identification by means of finger prints is about one in 17,000-that one.—Yonkers Statesman.

Blouses and Beaded Bags

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for the United Press)
All Waste is very wrong indeed.
I've heard these many years;
Yet nothing's wrong with Betty's
waist;
It's quite all right, my dears.
New York, April 10.—Three B's
now buzzing in milady's spring bonnet are blouses and beaded bags.

The blouses are all to be baggy
and the bags are all to be beady.
To be sure, beaded bags have been in hand for many seasons, but just the different placing of a bead or two makes a vast change in these 1916 model bags.

In these new bags the beads aren't quite everything. Silk meets the bead half way and either the top of the bag is a puff of taffeta with a lower half of beads in vari-colored designs or stripes, or vice versa the beaded top loosens out into a puff of taffeta below.

There is quite a craze for plaid effects in the bead work and in green or blue with a top of navy blue silk;
or black and white check bead effects,
with a black moire top, you have altogether a cute little bag of tricks.

A little round pancake of a bag in navy blue or black silk is hand embrodered in cut steel beads in diminishing circles, like a target, with a tiny little beaded tassel dangling from the bull's eye. Such a bag could not fail to be attractive, since it is a target for all eyes.

You must waste no time in getting a waist of the times; or, in other words, you'd better be rushin' to get a Russian blouse. They are simply the last word in blousings.

They are hip length and belted in at the regulation waist line a la Cos-sack. A stunning one in rose and white striped handkerchief linen has collar, cuffs and a fold of white linen around the bottom. It is belted with white kid and fastens down the front with buttons of white crochet.

Another in coral, grey or old blue Georgette crepe has collar, cuffs, band of sash of white radium silk.
It also fastens with white crochet buttons.

A sort of modified Russian blouse is a chic new sport blouse made of ceru Pussy willow taffeta. Its hip length edge is piped in navy blue taffeta as are the collar and cuffs; and its belt is a wide band of the blue. It is smocked on the shoulders and is built to slip on over the head.

Touche of color are found on almost all the new waists in pinnings or noets or contrasting collars and cuffs.
Many show the deep, capelike collars,
and Georgette crepe, crepe de chine
and handkerchief linen are the chosen materials.

A renewed popularity for the comfortable and artistic smock is promised for informal hot weather wear;
and it is undoubtedly this garment
as one parent and the regulation blouse as the other that has made possible the birth of the new 1916
Russian blouse with characteristics of both the progenitors.

So serviceable and comfortable are the new smocks and Russian blouses that although they are all waists
they can't be all wastes.

Say Soldiers' Wives
Drink Heavily Since
"Tommy" Has Gone

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

London, April 10.—A plan is being considered in England today to compel a man who wants to carry a bottle of whiskey in his pocket to take out a license. It isn't likely the scheme will be adopted but it illustrates the trouble the government is having in its attempts to regulate the country's personal habits.

Present English saloon regulations were adopted as a war measure. The intention was to reach two particular classes of people—makers of munitions and other military necessaries and the wives of soldiers at the front.

The authorities contended early in the war that excessive drinking by the munition workers was lowering their output. Then came the complaint that soldiers' wives were drinking too much. These women received from the government what are known as "separation allowances," varying somewhat with circumstances, but amounting approximately to from $3 to $4 weekly.

The sum, though small according to American standards, was liberal from the viewpoint of many English workmen. They also received it paid into their own hands, instead of being dependent on what their husbands had previously seen fit to give them. It was charged that numbers of them spent far too large a proportion of it for alcoholic refreshments.

The upshot was a regulation restricting liquor-selling daily to two hours and a half, beginning with noon, and to three hours, beginning with 6:30 p. m.

Employers complained that unless they set the luncheon hour for their help later than 2:30 p. m. many workers returned fuddled for their afternoon's duties.

Housewives were bitterly dissatisfied at the epidemic of failures by their husbands to return from work until 9:30 or a little after, for dinner.

Indications are that there has been a falling off among those on whom the drinking habit had no very tight grip, but certainly no decrease, and perhaps the contrary, on the part of confirmed habitués.

IMPROVE BRAINERD ROAD

R. B. Millard, of Little Falls, Writes of What Crow Wing County Will Do This Year

(Little Falls Transcript)

A first class road from Little Falls all the way to Pine River, Pequot and other points in the northern part of the state will be opened next summer with the completion of work to be done on the road between Little Falls and Brainerd and on the Gull lake road from Brainerd north. R. B.
Millard drove to Brainerd Friday and while there made inquiries about the road work to be done this spring.

Crow Wing county has appropriated $6,000 to fix the road from the county line to Brainerd and if this is spent, the state will allow $10,000 more. Morrison county will finish its section of the road north to the county line this spring, completing the road from here to Brainerd.
About one and one-half miles remains to be built this side of the line, and the tractor will be taken there as soon as it can be used. The Crow Wing section of the road is already surveyed and ready for work to begin.

The Gull lake road from Brainerd has been changed so that it will run about one mile west from Brainerd and then follow the section line as closely as possible to Gull lake.
From that point on the road is in fairly good shape.

POOR HEALTH CAUSED ACT

Clarence A. Jewett, Millionaire, Commits Suicide.

Los Angeles, April 10.—While lying in the shade of a giant eucalyptus tree, Clarence A. Jewett, seventy years old, a retired millionaire merchant, committed suicide by shooting himself.

Jewett came to Los Angeles seven years ago from Aberdeen, S. D., where he was head of a wholesale grocery concern.

The body was found by workmen.
Jewett had shot himself twice through the breast with a small, cheap revolver.
Despondency over continued ill health was said to be responsible for his act.

OLD GUARD CANNOT FORGET

Assert That 3,000,000 Republicans Oppose Colonel Because He Brought Defeat to Republican Party Four Years Ago—Young Men Stanch Supporters.
Uncle Joe as a Conservationist.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 10.—[Special.]—
"Three million Republicans believe that Theodore Roosevelt was responsible for the defeat of the Republican party in 1912. They are not going to consent to rewarding Roosevelt with the presidency. That is the reason why the Republicans will not nominate him."

Substantially that is what one hears from men who do not want Roosevelt nominated and from Democrats who do not want him elected if nominated.
At the same time the nearer the time approaches for making the nomination there is more and more insistence upon Roosevelt among a certain class of Republicans, some of them who were opposed to Roosevelt during the last part of his term and others who fought him with bitterness in 1912.

Will Try to Put Him Over.

Whether Roosevelt is playing the game—and he is the shrewdest politician the country has known—or whether he is letting matters drift his way is not quite certain, but there is no doubt that a great effort will be made to put him over at Chicago. The fellows who are going to rally to his support will not only be the men who were for him four years ago, but there will be quite a number of old regulars who want a strong, vigorous candidate, one who will inspire the fighting blood of the party.

Another thing that is working for Roosevelt is the admiration of the younger men. It has always been asserted that there were enough first voters in every presidential election to carry the country, and it is claimed that a great preponderance of these first voters will be for Roosevelt.

Uncle Joe, Conservationist.

"I am a conservationist," declared
Uncle Joe Cannon, much to the surprise of the house. "I am tired of seeing the forests of this country cut down and converted into print paper on which to print many newspapers and magazines and the recollections of people and statistics and reports here and there. We have got to stop it or the country will be deprived of its forests."

Uncle Joe has occupied about as much space on print paper as any other man—with only one exception, the universal exception to all rules.

When It Comes to Pork.

When it comes to the distribution of pork there is no difference between Republicans and Democrats. On this subject one day Jim Mann told the house, "We are had enough, the Lord knows, but you Democrats are a little worse."

There had been under discussion a proposition to turn over to the South Carolina naval militia an immigrant station at Charleston. During the debate it transpired that the station had never been opened; that no immigrants went to Charleston, and that the station was one of several that were built at a time when New York and Philadelphia secured improved facilities.

But it should be remembered that the people of a congressional district usually measure a man's usefulness by his ability to extract money from the federal treasury to be expended in his district.

DAMAGE IS BIG IN GALICIA

Society of Austrian Architects Put It
at $400,000,000.

Vienna, April 10.—The total damage caused by the war to property in the province of Galicia is estimated at $400,000,000 in a report prepared by the Society of Austrian Architects, dealing with plans for the rebuilding of the destroyed towns and villages

The report states that nearly 100-have fled to Russia, while 60,000 fami-

less.

Of 689 villages in the war area 271
are reported more than half destroyed.
In the others there is generally some war damage, but the proportion varies considerably.

STATE GEOGRAPHICAL NAMES AND THEIR HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE

(Prepared by the Minnesota Historical Society for the United Press)

Blue Earth County
Bluish green earth on the banks of a stream flowing into the Minnesota explains the name of the stream and of the county established in 1853. It was probably some of this earth which is so famous in 1791 and sent to France, supposing it to be copper.

Blue Earth is a translation of Mankato, the Sioux name for the river. As the Indians pronounced it with each "a" broad as in "father" and the accent on the second syllable, they might have difficulty in recognizing the word in the name of the bustling city of Mankato.

The Atkin Independent-Age told the democrats of that place that they need not worry about who would be the new postmaster for Atkin as the "party guardians" would attend to that matter for them. This was two months ago, and now the Age announces that just five of the good guardians of the party have met, agreed on, and sent the name of John Svedburg to F. B. Lynch and that he will be appointed in due time.

The "dough boys" with the American army in Mexico have originated their own war song, a parody on Tipperary, which is based on the long hikes between temporary camping place, and goes like this:
"It's a long hike to Tipperary,
It's a long way to go;
It's a long way to catch Pancho,
Good bye Old Columbus;
Farewell, Gibbons ranch
It's a long, long way to Tipperary
But (shouted) We should worry".

Here's a man who enjoys paying his taxes because he gets value received and he is not afraid to say why:
"My taxes are more than $100, but the schooling my one child gets is worth twice that amount each year to me. Next year I will have two children getting a beginning of an education. Besides that I have a sidewalk of cement all the way from my home to my office, the railway depot and other parts of town. I have the privilege of sewers and splendid lighted streets. People should stop and think of the privileges they enjoy for the taxes they pay."

Ever think of it that way. Just boost, don't knock.

The Deereed Times is giving its readers some information regarding the value of men in public office with experience and has the following to say as to why C. B. Buckman is the most valuable man in the race for the congressional nomination:

We can't see why some newspapers of the fifth congressional district of Minnesota want to elect a man who is not a resident of the district. C. B. Buckman is known throughout this district as doing as much if not more for the district than any other representative of Minnesota.

We all know it takes from two to four years before the district will derive any special benefit of a man who is not acquainted with the "ifs and ands" of the house, is sent there. Buckman has been there and knows just what the district wants and how to obtain it. We believe him the most capable man in the race, for this important office.

Bill Provides for Aeroplane Patrol 100 Miles on Coast

(By United Press)

Washington, April 10.—It was learned today that a fleet of fifty aeroplanes to patrol the Pacific and Atlantic coast as auxiliaries to the U. S. Coast Guard cutters, is the proposition set forth in a bill to be introduced during the present session of congress. The bill will ask for an appropriation of $500,000 for the purchase and maintenance of the fleet. There are 5,000 miles of coast in the U. S. and it is proposed to have an aeroplane stationed every 100 miles.

Lookouts in aeroplanes would be able to sight ships in distress much more readily than the lookouts on board coast guard cutters; and since the air machine can attain a greater speed than the cutters, aid could be despatched to distressed vessels more quickly. It is maintained that these coast guard aeroplanes would be a valuable addition to the military forces in time of war.

The possibilities of this fleet are great. Equipped with searchlights at night they might prove far more adequate than light ships, and it is said that an aeroplane would be of great service to coast guards in carrying breeches buoy lines to ships ashore, when the surf is running too high for the launching of a life boat.

Major Dudley, a Washington newspaperman, conceived the idea, and has been instrumental in the drawing up of the bill. Coast guard officials, the Aero Club of America and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Newton have endorsed the proposed bill.

SALOON BANDITS ARE CAUGHT NEAR DULUTH

St. Paul, April 10.—After a running fight with a squad of policemen Brady Henry, said by the police to be the murderer of Joseph Young, and Frank Finn, his accomplice in the attempted holdup of Mike Brown's saloon, April 1, were captured at a railroad bridge between West Superior and Duluth.

The men, who have criminal records in Minnesota, were trapped in the outskirts of Superior after the St. Paul police had warned Chief of Police McKinnon of that city.

Led by Chief McKinnon seven policemen attempted to surprise the bandits, but failed. The posse gave chase and shot Finn in the ankle just before he reached the railroad bridge. Henry was caught in the middle of the bridge when the police covered both ends. He surrendered. Both men confessed to the St. Paul crime, the police say.

LARGE LOG BOOM BREAKS

Over a Million Feet of Timber Carried Away.

St. Paul, April 10.—With almost the same rapidity which characterized its rise late Saturday night the Mississippi river subsided Sunday, leaving more than 1,000,000 feet of logs clogged on every bridge support and other obstruction from Elk River to St. Paul.

Embedded in the ice of Elk river the big log boom had been held fast all winter. Without the slightest warning the ice began to buckle Saturday and, with a strong undercurrent, the great mass of ice and logs was almost catapulted down the Mississippi so swiftly did the current move.

Janesville, Wis., April 10.—Miss Elsie Fathers and Charles Carr were killed at South Janesville when the automobile in which they were driving was struck by a Rockford and Janesville interurban car. The bodies were mangled.

Miss Fathers was the daughter of Mayor James A. Fathers and acted as her father's private secretary.

Minneapolis, April 10.—Thirteen members of the Minnesota delegation to the Democratic national convention voted to recommend the re-election of Fred B. Lynch as national committeeman, one refused to vote and four were excused from voting at a conference meeting at the West hotel.

There are twenty-four delegates and eighteen were present.

FARMER'S BOY REACHES TOP

Famous Foe of Criminal Wealth.

Rochester, Minn., April 10.—Every red blooded man likes a winner, especially when the winner has had to make a hard and long fight against odds.

Few men have had more obstacles to overcome or have achieved greater fame than our former fellow townsman, Frank B. Kellogg.

THE OFFICE SEEKS THE MAN
Rochester swelled with pride when it learned that more than 125 representative country editors had signed a petition or written Mr. Kellogg to become a candidate for U. S. Senator. It was one of those rare events in modern times—a genuine case of the office seeking the man.

Frank B. Kellogg was raised on a farm in Viola township near this city. His boyhood was similar to that of thousands of other farmers' boys. It was a life of hard work, many sacrifices and few pleasures, attending country school in the winter and doing his usual farm work after school.

NEIGHBORS BELIEVE IN HIM

His old neighbors say that he is still the same, every-day sort of a man and that his manner is democratic and cordial to all.

In 1875 he began to study law in the office of H. A. Kekholdt of this city. During the winter he took care of a farmer's horses and cows for his board and in the spring he went back to the farm and worked through seedling time for $13.00 per month. He also went out during harvest and worked in the field.

He served five years as county attorney of Olmsted county. One of his first important cases was when he represented the villages of Plainview and Elgin in Wabasha county against the Winona & St. Peter Railroad Company, and recovered from the railroad about $200,000.00 for these villages on bonds which had been illegally taken by the railroad and sold on the market. This case was brought to Mr. Kellogg after other lawyers had lost it for the villages of Plainview and Elgin, and made many friends for him in Southern Minnesota.

In 1887, Senator Cushman K. Davis made him a partner with himself and C. A. Severance.

ROOSEVELT CALLS KELLOGG

In 1906, President Roosevelt was attracted to Kellogg because of the latter's conspicuous success in private practice. In consequence, he put Mr. Kellogg in charge of the most important trust prosecution ever tried, among them being the Paper trust, the Standard Oil Co., and the merger of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads. All were carried to the Supreme Court of the United States and all were decided in favor of the public.

WINS GREAT LEGAL DUELS

His brilliant cross-examination of the wizards of Wall Street, as well as his legal duel with the great corporation lawyers of the East, won for him the approval of the public and at the same time the bitter enmity of the financial giants.

FOUGHT FOR FARMERS

As member of the resolutions committee of the Republican national convention he championed some important labor plans. He vigorously opposed the reciprocity bill and the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill before Congress, in so far as they discriminated against the farmers of the Northwest.

SETTLED R. R. STRIKE

In 1908, President Roosevelt sent for Mr. Kellogg and asked him to prevent a wage reduction on the Chicago Great Western for which road Mr. Kellogg was general counsel.

With characteristic energy Mr. Kellogg applied himself to the task and was soon able to have the order reducing the trainmen's wages, set aside—a great victory for the trainmen.

A REPUBLICAN

In politics Frank B. Kellogg has always stood with the progressive wing of the Republican party, but he did not go so far as to leave that party four years ago.

HEADS AMERICAN BAR

In 1912, the American Bar Association elected him president in recognition of his eminent legal ability.

HOME TOWN FOR KELLOGG

It is freely predicted here that he will receive a larger vote for U. S. Senator than all other candidates put together.

When a Hospital Looks Like Heaven

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Salonica, Greece, Feb. 26 (By Mail)—A hospital is like heaven to a sick or wounded soldier.

If a man has any strength left when he tumbles in between the white sheets for the first time he heaves a sigh of relief and content. I was on my back for three weeks in the Fourth Canadian hospital at Salonica and I got to watching the newcomers, waiting for this sigh of contentment and for the smile which crossed even the pain-strained faces as the soldiers or officers relaxed from the tension of their sufferings and surrendered themselves to the ministrations and care of the nurses.

No wounded came in while I was there. There was no terrible rush, such as sometimes happens during a battle when torn and bleeding men pour in like a flood, night and day, and test the nerves and strength of the doctors, surgeons and nurses almost to the breaking point. I suppose such men sigh too, if they have the strength, when they find that they have exchanged their bed of bloodied mud on the battle field for the white sheets and soft coats and the gentle care of the nurses in some tent hospital.

Most of the men who came in while I was there were sick of gripe or pneumonia. Some of them were Englishmen who in spite of some chronic ailment of long standing, had volunteered and tried to stand the roughness of field life, only to have their old ailments exaggerated. Most of them had tried to fight off the illness and hadn't surrendered until either an intense fever or pain had overcome them.

"Get to the hospital with your boots on," seemed to be their motto. Though they came in ambulances they rarely came on stretchers. There's always something pitiful and gruesome about a huddled form on a stretcher and you don't want to be that form yourself, if you can help it.

The next step with a newcomer was to sit on the edge of the cot which had been assigned him. If he was very ill he might at least stretch out on the blanket.

"Don't surrender," seemed to be the idea. "Get to the hospital with your boots on and keep them on as long as you can."

But, shortly, a white clad and very business-like young nurse would take matters in hand, and, as it were, throw up the sponge for our conquered hero. She would come in with pajamas, of soft cotton flannel, made by the kind hands of Canadian women, and a pair of bed socks of the same material.

"Off with your clothes," she would say. "Get into these and go right to bed."

"But"—the officer would begin to protest.

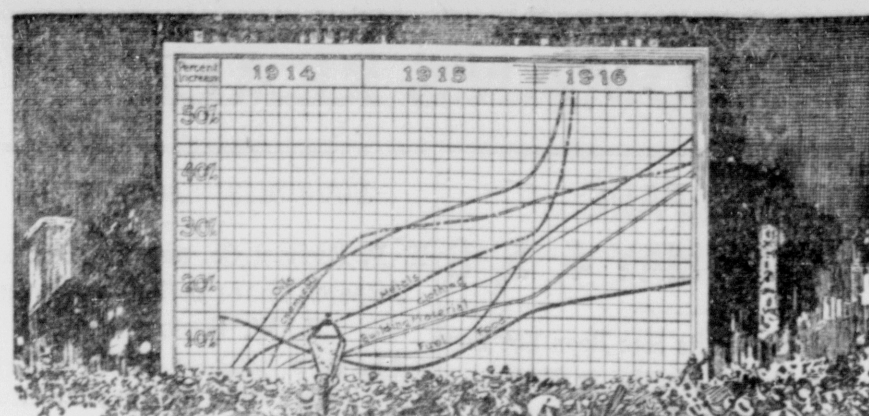

"Into bed," the nurse would order, firmly. And the man whose job it was to order around a thousand men, even to the point of death, if need be, would weakly submit.

Within ten minutes a pajamaed figure would crawl in between the warm blankets and then would come the sigh. Rest and comfort and care at last, after the mud and wet, cold and dirt, beds of straw and sleeping bags.

A British army hospital isn't supposed to be a place for sentiment, any more than a British quarter-master's department or an automobile repair station. Its purpose is to repair soldiers and officers and make them useful again, fit for the firing line. Theoretically, an army hospital is a place to which you send broken down men to have them fixed up in much the same way that an officer sends his horse to the company farrier to have it shod. That is, it works that way, theoretically. But human nature overcomes theory, now and again. I don't believe there was a single nurse of the seventy-five in that hospital who had not taken care of at least one German soldier. Several had cared for whole wards full of them.

I asked my nurse about it one afternoon when she was sitting sewing in the tent.

"Many and many a German I've nursed in France," she said. "They always used to be so frightened at first; no matter how they suffered, they seemed to be afraid to complain or to even tell of it. We used to try to win them over by extra care and kindness. Our orders were to treat them just as we treated our own British Tommies. Some of them were very young and, after they got acquainted and saw that the British were going to be kind to them, they were the happiest patients we had. Sometimes they used to laugh at the Rising Costs confront everybody!

This is an era of ascending costs, a period of price advancement without parallel. No statistical chart is needed to prove this—the effect of higher prices is felt by everyone, and is of real concern to all. It is a time for thoroughly weighing values, a time for taking advantage of every opportunity that offers a genuine saving.

Certain-teed Roofing lowers the cost of building

CERTAIN-TEED offers a substantial saving in roof construction, at this or any other time. It costs less to buy, less to lay, less to maintain and less per year of life. Because of tremendous production (the General makes one third of all the roll roofing made in America), and because of economies effected by enormous resources, modern machinery and favorably located mills, the General is able to make the best roofing at the lowest cost.

CERTAIN-TEED Roofing is the General's own product—from the raw materials to the finished rolls, it is made in the General's huge mills. It is made of the best quality roofing felt, thoroughly saturated with the General's own blend of soft asphalts and coated with an impervious covering of harder asphalts. This keeps the inner saturation soft, and prevents the drying out process so destructive to ordinary roofing. That's why CERTAIN-TEED outlasts other roofing. It is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply. Experience proves that it lasts longer.

CERTAIN-TEED is sold by responsible dealers everywhere at reasonable prices. Investigate it before you decide on any type of roof.

Save rags—they're worth big money now!
Prices paid for rags eight times as high as a year ago.

Rags! Rags!—got any rags? You're lucky if you have a lot of old rags around the place, because they'll bring you big money now—eight times as much as you used to get for them. Last year rags sold around 5c a pound—now they are bringing 4c a pound, and manufacturers are glad to get them at that price. Rags form the basis of many well known products, such as writing paper, roofing etc. The roofing mills alone used a quarter of a million tons of rags last year. At present prices, this quantity of rags cost $12,500,000 more than a year ago—an increase in price of $40,000 a day for roofing.

Boys and girls!—This is your chance to make some money. Get busy and hunt up all the rags you can find. Sell them! They'll bring you good money. If you are not offered their real value, write our nearest office.

high school German I had learned in Toronto.

"But the Tommies were just as kind to them as we were. Of course the German patients were always under guard. There was always a Tommy with a rifle in the tent. One young German in my ward had lost the lower part of his jaw and I always had to feed him soup. One day I wasn't in the tent when I did get there I saw the British Tommy who was on guard holding up the German boy with one arm and feeding him soup with the other. His rifle lay on the floor. The Tommy didn't see me come in. Another German patient beckoned me to come to him and when I did, he pointed over to the Tommy and said 'Look at that.' There were tear in his eyes and I guess they came into mine, too. For that one little minute, the war looked silly."

"So did the Tommy," she added, "when he saw me. He tried to get out of it by blaming the German. 'Blighter felt a bit peckish and tried to feed himself,' he said, scowling at the prisoner."

It is quite commonly held that the word gentleman is made from the two words "gentle" and "man," but this is not the case. Originally the word was spelled "gentleman" and signified literally a Christian convert.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES

President B. J. Broady Makes His Semi-Annual Report and Takes up Work Accomplished

NEW SECRETARY IS ELECTED

Wm. B. Lear Succeeds Miss Sophie C. Nelson, Resigned—Advisory Board Held Meeting

At the advisory board meeting of the Associated Charities the resignation of Miss Sophie C. Nelson was received and accepted and Wm. B. Lear was elected to succeed her.

President B. J. Broady read his semi-annual report for the period covering October 1, 1915 to April 5, 1916, and it is given in full as follows:

Owing to the fact that the secretary has recently sent in her resignation, the report of the work of the Associated Charities for the past six months will be made by the president. These months have been busy ones, of course, since most of the work is done during the winter. But conditions have been better this year than they were last winter, for work has been plentiful, and nothing beyond temporary relief has been given in those cases where there was some member of the family able to earn a livelihood. In cases of sickness, desertion, and the like, the association has given help until other means of support have been provided. The usual baskets were sent out Thanksgiving, and the Children's Hour was assisted at Christmas time by some of our workers in sending out their baskets. Something over fifty families are remembered in this way.

The results of Tag Day enabled us to employ a visiting nurse, and most of the work has centered around her activities. On December 1, 1915, Miss Rachel Puckering was employed to fill this position at a salary of seventy dollars per month. Miss Puckering was chosen from among a number of applicants on the strength of her experience in similar lines of work elsewhere, and she has, we believe, given very general satisfaction. To the women of Brainerd goes the credit for having the visiting nurse, because it was through the efforts of the Brainerd Musical club that sufficient Red Cross Seals were sold a year ago Christmas to enable us to have $160 from the State Board of Health for this purpose; the splendid organization of women gotten together by Mrs. Thabes made Tag Day a success and it was the Musical club again last year that sold Red Cross Seals and thereby secured an additional $85.80 from the State Board of Health.

In connection with the visitors of our own organization, the visiting nurse has done a great deal of investigating among those applying for relief and also considerable nursing when sickness has been present among the poor of the city. More important, perhaps, has been the preventative work which she has done in instructing parents in case of their children when suffering with colds and sore-throat which has been so prevalent this past winter, and thereby preventing the spread of infection among other children.

Soon after she came Miss Puckering made a preliminary survey of the condition of the pupils in the public schools with the view to discovering cases of defective eye-sight, adenoids, and the like, and also to give instruction in matters of personal cleanliness where necessary. She has endeavored to "pick up" these cases in order that the parents might realize the conditions present and take steps to have them remedied. She has assisted the school authorities in the investigation of cases of truancy, illness, lack of cleanliness, etc.

The visiting nurse has also been working in conjunction with the probate court in the matter of defective children, and one boy was sent to Paribault in the custody of the nurse. There are several cases of this sort now under consideration in which we hope to secure proper care for the children concerned.

Under Miss Puckering's direction the preparations for the Baby Welfare Campaign are about completed. This campaign is taken in connection with the nation wide movement for better babies, and will be of interest to all. The Knights of Columbus hall has been secured for the demonstrations and exhibits, and furnishes all the conveniences required to take care of the babies.

The usual amount of clothing and shoes have been furnished, and the people have been very generous in donating these articles. Mrs. Bertram has worked faithfully collecting clothing and helping the nurse distribute it where needed. The necessary shelves and equipment have been put in our store room in the city hall so that all clothing can be properly sorted and cared for.

We have partially furnished our office room in the city hall, and the Northwestern Telephone Company has given us free telephone service. The visiting nurse has established regular office hours.

Our financial condition is excellent as will appear from the report of the treasurer. We received some donations from individuals, and the results of a collection at a union church service, but have not as yet made any general call on the affiliated organizations for contributions. This results from the excellent return from the Charity Ball, and the thanks of the organization are again extended to the Chamber of Commerce under whose auspices it was held, the Brainerd Musical club women who sold the tickets, and the Knights of Columbus who donated the hall.

The outlook for the future is very bright, and those of us who are actively connected with the work of the organization believe that it fills a very great need in our community.

"ARE YOU THE EASY MARK?"

Under this Heading "Long Prairie Leader" Lambasts the Subscription Contest Game

HEADED FOR STEARNS COUNTY

A Paper Should be Sold on Its Merits. No Bird Cages Should be Offered as Prizes

The "Long Prairie Leader" in a red hot article pays its compliments to the subscription contest game and in that takes the same stand as the Duluth Herald, that a paper which cannot be sold on its merits had better close shop and quit. The article follows:

Well, well, well, girls—there may be a chance for you this spring to show the public how exceedingly "popular" you are.

The newspaper subscription contest manipulator has designs on you and is planning to have you pull his chestnuts out of the fire.

This moss covered method of bothering the public and advertising the fact that the editor is slipping has been practically discarded by newspaper men. It flourished a number of years ago but self respecting publishers everywhere have cut it out until now when a newspaper man puts on such a contest it is generally regarded by the profession as a sign of distress or an indication that some one is getting ready to sell out.

The Leader sinned in this regard ten years ago this summer. In a careless moment we permitted an oily tongued subscription contest faker to work us and we have been ashamed of the matter ever since. During the past year four different "contest managers" have been here to interview us with the idea of putting on a contest, working a few citizens to death and incidentally making themselves a nuisance to their friends, but we have steadfastly declined to bite. We sinned once—never again.

We have word that an outfit that makes a business of engineering such contests is working this way. They or others of their kind have been promptly turned down by editors at Sauk Centre, Wadena, Little Falls, St. Cloud and Alexandria but they are persistent and may try to get on some way in Todd county. We hardly believe, however, that any Todd county editor is in straits such that he thinks it necessary to go back to the moss covered method of a subscription contest and pay some slick strangers his subscription income for two or three years just for a few weeks of hurrah boys but as a news item warning the good people of the county that a J. Rufus Wallingford is abroad in the land, the information may be timely.

The better class of newspapers everywhere have absolutely cut out subscription contests methods of collecting accounts and repairing circulation. It has come to be regarded as unprofessional, unbusinesslike and an imposition upon the public. When matters reach a pass such a paper can not be sold on its merits, the editor usually has some kind friend advise him to close up.

However, keep your eyes open and ears too for that matter. Some smooth stranger may be out to see you some of these days under the impression that you are the prize easy mark of your community and that is the hope of landing a piano or an automobile or a set of spoons or a bird cage, you may be induced to work your head off for two or three months while the fat financier sits around the hotel, smokes big cigars and draws a nice commission on the work you do.

She Didn't Raise Her Boy to be a Loafer, said a Thrifty Mother

One of the most important lessons that a child can learn is that money is the representative of labor; a reward for services rendered; compensation for doing something, and not a gift to be had for the asking. The penny that is earned has a vastly different value from the one that is inherited. When the child grows up he will find that the work he has not done today for the money he has today, but only in return for value. The growing boy or girl can learn to better himself than in no other way by earning something for their sustenance and pleasure, though the service rendered be trivial, such as carrying wood, washing dishes, dusting, etc., the value of the lesson remains.

After earning money by labor, it becomes necessary that it should be well spent in order that the benefit, both morally and financially, be lasting. If the child is merely taught to earn in order to spend, he is acquiring spendthrift habits which will enlarge as the years go by, and be disastrous. How to Make The Face Beautiful

It's So Easy If You Will

It's the simplest little process imaginable to make the face beautiful and to keep it so. First, wash the face with Nyal's Face Cream soap, a thorough lathery scrubbing—afterwards washing off with clear water. Dry the face and then apply our Nyal's Face Cream. Rub well into the skin until it disappears.

That's the whole treatment. Nothing else will be required.

Nyal's Face Cream and Face Cream Soap are amongst the very best articles of their class to be found. We highly recommend them as do many satisfied ladies throughout Brainerd. You can do no better than to try this combination if you really want a clean, healthful, beautiful skin.

marked ability. A boy in Passaic, N. J., is earning $5 a week out of school hours, and has $100 in the bank. Such opportunities are on every hand for the boy, particularly, to profitably use his spare time which might otherwise be frittered away to a damageable degree.

The selling of papers, running of errands for a store, and work of this order does not reflect on the standing of the parents—it is simply good training and those whose regard is worth having will recognize this fact.

A certain mother in Staten Island whose boy used his out of school time in delivering packages for a dyeing establishment and earned $1 a week, had the right idea. She insisted that he put a part of his earnings in the bank. As his earnings increased he increased his savings. He thought it hard at first to bank rather than spend his money, but he got the habit, and now he is glad his mother was strict. He has recently bought an automobile out of his savings, which might appear extravagant, but with such a training he is sure to turn it into an earning power.

A boy reared in such surroundings must be thrifty. This mother did not raise her boy to be a loafer, or on the streets wasting time, and learning bad habits; she helped him capitalize his spare moments for substantial results later on in life.

On the home training depends largely whether or not the boy is to be thrifty or spendthrift; a saver or a waster; a soldier in the great army of those who work, or a loafer straggling in the rear.

Unselfishness.

"You know, a penny saved is a penny earned." "That's the selfish view," replied the spendthrift. "When you let go of the penny somebody else gets the chance to earn it."—Washington Star.

The burly Scotchman, with his deep, tanned face, his heavy beard and rough clothes, was a striking contrast to the delicate little witness who had gone before him, and he surveyed the Judge and jury with a wary hostility that under less tragic circumstances would have won a smile from the spectators.

"MacPherson, you are a woodsman, are you not?"

"I am, sir."

"Where were you employed six years ago?"

"I was wurkin' to the Paisley estate, clearin' out the auld timber in the woods." There was a hint of a Scottish accent in his speech, though long years in America had left it no more than a burr, pleasantly suggestive of the wide woodland spaces among which his life was spent.

"Did you ever see Miss Page?"

"Yes, sir. She came tae the woods often. She had a luvie of the wild things in her heart, and I'd coom across her many times, sittin' wle a book, or just dreamin' in the woods."

"MacPherson, can you remember the last time that you saw Mary Page in the woods of the Paisley estate?"

"I've a gude memory," he answered rebukingly, "and it was a time to set in anyone's mind. 'Twas on the night of the party Jim Hanley give, up to the ridge."

"Will you tell us, please, what occurred on that night?"

"I had been tae the party and was comin' home. We had sat sae lang it were pretty late, and I says to myself, 'I'll na go way round by the road, but straight through the woods.' I knew them too well to lose my way, even in the dark. I had coom almost to the hollow, which is like a bowl in the middle of the wood, when I heard somebody singin'.

"It came strange like in the night, and I am nae ashamed to say I was scared, so I stood—no hidin', mind ye, but waitin' tae see what it was. Then I seen a figure on the other side of the hollow coomin' through the trees—all in white—and wavin' his arms, daft-like, and singin' and laughin' and cryin' all in one."

"Could you see who it was?"

"Not at first. It were too far away, but I says to myself, 'It's nae a ghost, or a fairy. 'Tis some puir daftie got away from his keeper. I'll wait till it gets nearer, then try and stop it.'"

"Could you hear what she was singin'?"

"Nae. But presently I heard another voice—a voice shoutin', and I knew it were someone after her. I was minded to shout back, but I was afraid of scarin' the poor daft thing, so I stood watchin' till suddenly she coom out into a patch of moonlight and I saw her face. It was Mary Page!"

A little gust of whispering comment rippled through the room, and the Judge, leaning forward, broke in sharply:

"How far distant was this figure when you first thought you recognized it as Mary Page?"

"I dimma ken, exactly," said the woodsman thoughtfully, "'twas no more than maybe twice the width of the space of your door," nodding towards the entrance into court, "but to get to her I would have had to skirt the lip of the hollow, so I stood still, watchin'."

"Will you tell us how Miss Page looked?"

"Her dress or her petticoats was all torn and muddy, her hair was hangin' down onto her shoulders, and her face and arms were scratched and bloody and there was something that looked like a great sore on her forehead. She moved like a blind person, stumblin' over stumps and bumphin' into the trees, and yet she kep' on that strange croonin' song—laughin', too, at times."

"Could you hear any other sound?"

"Aye, I heard a voice cullin', 'Mary! Mary!' And I could hear the smashin' of the underbrush as somebody came runnin', but she didna look around."

"Did she pass you?"

"No; she skirted the hollow round the other side, but I could see her. I wouldna let her out of my sight, till she were safe, but I didna want to lay hands on a daftie myself. Then suddenly I saw a man come runnin' through the woods, and when he saw her, he gave a great cry and shouted, 'Thank God!' Then he called again, 'Mary, Mary—wait for me—wait for me, dear!' The echo in the hollow caught it up so that the whole woods were full of the cry, and at that she turned, and stood swayin'—like a young sapling cut at the root. Then she gave a cry, and fell all crumpled in a little heap."

"Did you go forward then?"

"I started, but before I could get around to them, the man had plucked the lassie up and carried her down by the brook in the hollow."

"Could you still see them?"

"Aye, like in a theatre, for the moon shone down there, while I stood above them in the trees. The man, who was Mr. Langdon, here, kep' wettin' his handkerchief and bathin' her poor face till she opened her eyes and said, 'Philip, Philip!' And at that, he held her close and sobbed like a child, and said, 'Mary, Mary, are you all right now, dear?' And she said, 'I'm tired—where have I been?' And he said, 'Never mind, dear, you can rest now—you are safe in my arms.' Then suddenly she gives a scream and cries, 'Don't let father touch me—don't let him touch me! Oh, Philip, I can feel it on my shoulder—it burns—it burns.' And he kissed her and said, 'There is nothin' on your shoulder except my kisses, Mary. Put the fear out of your head; nothin' can harm you while I have you safe.' And she says, 'Not even James?' And he says, 'Not even James, d— him! Then she gives a little sigh like a bairn that is tired, and holds up her lips to be kissed, and then snuggles her puir head in his shoulder, and he knelt there holdin' her."

"Mr. Langdon flung my husband to the floor."

"You went up to them then, did you not?"

"Well, you know that," answered the Scotchman with some scorn. "I went up and I said, 'Can I help you carry the puir lassie home?' And he said, 'No, I shall not move her till she has rested a bit.' Then he wraps her in his coat and sits watchin' her, but after a bit he says, 'She's been sleepin' sound, I can carry her now,' and he picks her up in his arms and starts off."

"Did Miss Page speak when she was moved?"

"Yes; she said 'Am I still safe with you, Phil?' And he says, 'Yes,' And she says, 'Oh, I wish I was dead—except for you, dear.' And he said, 'I wish those who torture you were dead, my darling, but I'm going to guard you myself in the future.' Then, still holdin' her in his arms and carryin' her careful like, he went off through the trees."

WILSON TO MAKE SPEECHES

Two Addresses Expected by Advisers to Have Political Effect.

Washington, April 10.—President Wilson will deliver two speeches this week which many of his advisers expect to have an important bearing on the coming presidential campaign.

The first will be made here Thursday night at a Jefferson day gathering of Democrats from all parts of the country and the second will be delivered Saturday night in New York at a banquet of the Young Men's Democratic club.

Chairman of Democratic state committees and members of the Democratic national committee and of the Democratic congressional committee will be the guests of the Common Council club, composed of government officials, at the banquet before which the president will speak Thursday night.

Wool in Early Virginia.

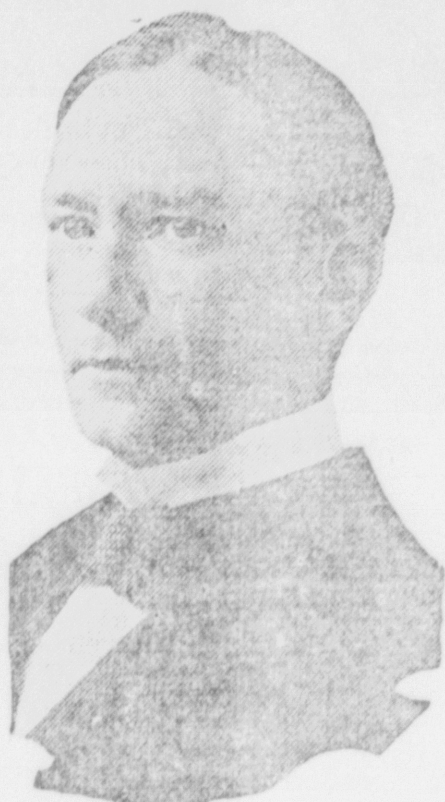

Great encouragement was given in Virginia in early days to the raising and manufacture of wool. The assembly estimated that five children not over thirteen years of age could by their work readily spin and weave enough to keep thirty persons clothed. Six pounds of tobacco were paid to any one bringing to the county courthouse where he resided a yard of homespun woolen cloth wholly in his family; twelve pounds of tobacco were offered as a reward for a dozen pairs of woolen hose knitted at home. Slaves were taught to spin and weave wheels and wool cards are found in the eighteenth century on every inventory of "planters' house furnishings."

Contortionist.

A London paper accuses a performer of sitting on the fence and hiding his head in the sand.—London Globe.

F. C. TANNER.

Chairman of New York
Republican Committee.

New York, April 10.—Frederick C. Tanner will continue to be chairman of the New York Republican state committee. An attempt by followers of William Barnes to oust him from that position at a meeting of the committee here for purposes of organization was defeated by a vote of 82 to 63.

KILLED DURING AUTO RACES

Bob Burman, His Mechanician and Track Guard Victims.

Corona, Cal., April 10.—Bob Burman of Detroit, noted automobile racer, his mechanician, Eric Schroeder of Chicago, and a track guard are dead as a result of the overturning of Burman's car in the Corona road race here.

Five spectators were injured, several seriously.

The accident happened on the back stretch of the ninety-seventh lap. A wheel flew off Burman's car and the machine crashed through the fence into the crowd. Schroeder was hurled eighty feet. The guard, W. H. Speer, was struck by the catapulting car and almost instantly killed.

Burman died in the city hospital at Riverside, twelve miles away, where he was taken from a temporary race hospital.

Mrs. Burman was with her husband soon after the accident and remained with him until he died.

The race was won by Eddie O'Donnell, who covered the 501 miles in 1 hour, 29 minutes, 52 seconds.

TOLEDO CAR STRIKE ENDED

Men Will Get 3 Cents an Hour Increase.

Toledo, O., April 10.—The Toledo street car strike has ended. The men were given an increase in wages of 3 cents an hour, but they will not be permitted to wear union buttons and the open shop rule will prevail.

The settlement came at a conference called by representatives of the street car men's union, when it was seen that they stood to lose under the proposed receivership which was to have been put into effect by Judge John M. Killits of the United States district court. The scale runs from 26 to 32 cents an hour.
